A Surprise Christmas Update

By george8888

As the days went by leading up to Christmas, players wondered if there was going to be an update before the year ended or if they would have to wait until 2019 to get another one. On December 22nd, Santa gave an answer in the form of sleek yet powerful missiles. The scientists quickly added heat seeking sensors, packaged them up and plopped them into the mazes. In addition to this, countless bugs have been squashed which means no more invisible mazes (yay) and Dimitri's Emporium has been organized into different sections to buy from. This update might be the last one before Laika comes out since it was hinted at the end of the latest news post that the scientists have been hard at work on this massive project.

Newark Goes Bonkers

By george8888

Ever since the chat spammers first spammed in Newark, that server hasn't been the same. New glitches appeared, mazes wouldn't load, the server was either always full or completely desolate, the chat delays would last longer than usual, and more. There was even a day where the server wouldn't load at all for anybody. Thankfully, after the newest update, things have gone back to normal for the most part although a few new quirks popped up. They'll all be patched in the next update though, so no worries.

TT's 11th Anniversary!

By george8888

December 16th, 2007 marked the beginning of a great game that has now lasted for over eleven years and has reached people all over the globe. Congrats to the team of scientists who have dedicated so much time and effort into making this game enjoyable for so many generations!

New TLR Logo?

By george8888

For ten whole volumes, TLR has had the same logo Issue after Issue. It's time to change things up a bit, so that's exactly what happened. You may have noticed the new logo on the first page. This was custom made by a player named CommanderAnime so massive thanks to them! Let the TLR Crew know what you think of this change on the forum.

CHORG Begins

By george8888

What is CHORG? Well that's just an acronym that stands for Christmas vs Halloween vs Onyx vs Rainbow vs Glitch. This annual tankessory competition used to be called CvHvGE but george8888 has decided to add more categories to spice things up a little. Hopefully this will bring in more players and make the competition more exciting. The entry thread is already on the forum and goes until December 25th. If you'd like to enter, simple read the rules on the thread, pick a category, and say you'd like to enter. The first round starts right after the entries thread ends and then it goes on from there, so be sure to either track the progress of your favorite contenders or enter yourself.

Cantina Chat #5

By george8888

Last Issue the community gave us their personal favorite tankcessory in the game. As expected, there wasn't a majority in this one and every response was unique. Some players mentioned that they liked paints - seasonal ones to be exact. Personally, I would have to go with the old camo accessory that came with the backer crate. The camo paint that comes with it now was actually a tankcessory, meaning that you could make a camo combo with a paint underneath the accessory! Anyway, here are some of the responses from last time.

“The Winter 2009 Seasonal Paints are by far the rarest accessories in the game. I hope I could have them...”

~MasterLefteris

“My favourite tankcessory must be the Old Broken Record glasses. They look so hipster-like!”

~CryingLightning

“I think the laika dogtags would be the best tankcessory, it's one of the only items that's in Tank Trouble Beta and Tank Trouble Classic that represents our favorite space dog.”

~Spiros04

“The Golden bandana! It's so cool and you look terribly awesome with that. A bit expensive but worth it. :p Will probably wear it as far as possible.”

~Anonymous

As was previously mentioned, TLR has gotten a new logo. It just felt right to change things up a bit right after having ten Volumes with the same image. The prompt for this Issue is as follows: do you like this new look for TLR? Should we revamp the logo every ten Volumes or just keep this one forever?
